PCH to Appear Next Before Zoning Board

Princeton Community Housing, Inc. moves on to the next square this Thursday with a crucial appearance before the Borough Zoning Board. PCH is asking for a use variance to build 101 housing units for elderly people with moderate income on the old Borough sewer field, off Elm Road. The variance is needed because the area is zoned for single-family homes.

PCH was scheduled to go before the Planning Board this past Tuesday, to hear comment on its plans. The expectation, at press time, was that the response would be favorable, if not necessarily unanimous.

The Borough Zoning Board meeting will be held at 8 in Borough Hall. And a crowded Borough Hall: three other items are on the agenda, each with its allotment of controversy, and PCH's opposition has coalesced. So far, PCH is scheduled to be the second application in line.

Opponents of the project, led by William J. Barr, 127 Westerly Road, have been soliciting $125 each from neighbors to meet the estimated $7500 legal fees of counsel Gordon Strauss. The fees, Mr. Barr explains, will cover the presentation to the Zoning Board, representation before Borough Council if the Zoning Board decides in favor of PCH and the neighbors decide to appeal, and finally in the courts, if both Zoning Board and Council decide favorably.

"Our opposition," Mr. Barr writes, "does not stem from an objection to the concept of low-cost housing for low-income elderly citizens, but rather that this site has nothing to offer in the way of attractive features for these citizens who need access to shopping areas, medical services, transportation and other services."

Selection of the site, the letter continues, "is an expedient, in order to secure quickly Federal financial support owing to time limitations on the availability of Federal funds."

Opponents are also concerned that approval would set a precedent, "permitting further expansion of this type of construction in the Elm Road area." It is also understood that many neighbors are concerned about additional traffic on Elm.

Princetonian Is Kidnapped In Beirut by Two Gunmen

David S. Dodge, acting president of the American University of Beirut whose Princeton home is at 87 Brookstone Drive, was kidnapped Monday from the university's campus in west Beirut by unidentified gunmen.

According to witnesses, Mr. Dodge was walking from his office to his campus home about 6:30 p.m. when two armed men forced him into a car and drove away. The district is in west Beirut under the control of Palestine guerrillas and Lebanese leftist militia.

One witness said Mr. Dodge apparently refused to get into the car, because one of the kidnapers hit him on the back of the head with the butt of a pistol. Mr. Dodge fell, and was pushed into the car.

According to Associated Press stories, the Palestine Liberation Organization leader, Yasir Arafat, ordered the PLO security to "drop everything else and concentrate on finding Mr. Dodge safely and

School Board to Fight for Full Restoration Of $524,000 in Aid Cut by State Legislature

"We want total restoration of the school aid cut — our representative wants half. We need to conform with him," stated school board member Harry Levine, at Monday night's special meeting of the board, called to consider what Princeton should do to get back its $524,000 in state aid.

The board also went into executive session — over Mr. Levine's protest — to talk about possible legal action. The board's case was so strong, Mr. Levine declared, that there was no need to discuss legal strategy in private.

The emergency meeting was called because State Senator Gerald Stockman, who represents Princeton, introduced a bill last week which would restore one-half the $524,000 cut out by legislators — including Senator Stockman. The figure is the entire amount of state aid received by Princeton.

Senator Stockman's bill was tentatively scheduled for discussion in committee this Thursday. Princeton's board members not only wanted to be prepared, they wanted time to rally the troops for a Thursday march on Trenton.

But Senator Stockman's aide, Cathy Curvy, attended the board meeting and said it was unlikely that the measure would be discussed this Thursday.

The board, before its executive session, agreed not to make any decisions about legal action before conferring with the 84 other districts affected by the legislature's cut.

Meanwhile, another bill has been introduced. This one, by Assemblywoman Mildred Barry Garvin, would restore all the $524,000. Board members made it clear Monday night that, although they were "grateful," in Mrs. McGoldrick's words, to Senator Stockman for his bill, they felt they were entitled to the whole amount.

Board members discussed the question of leadership. Mr. Levine said firmly that he wanted the New Jersey School Boards Association to be the leaders.

"I don't want just Princeton going to Trenton, but all 611 school districts, represented by the NJSBA," he said.

Efforts Under Way to Attempt to Keep Airport in Business in Montgomery Twp.

It's called Princeton Airport now and under that name the 50-acre facility on Route 206 almost certainly will soon be out of business. But this week several area businessmen, private pilots, and developers with land holdings in the vicinity of the airport met with public officials to discuss ways to maintain the property, currently for sale, as an airport.

Three possibilities — some more probable than others — were considered: a municipal airport owned by Montgomery Township, the Somerset County municipality in which the airport is located; a private airport operated by a non-authority, possibly including Somerset County, and operated as an airport-research park.

Residents of Montgomery Township at the meeting, held in a classroom overlooking the main hangar at the airport, were skeptical about the county committing its resources to a landing strip located in the southernmost part of the county and used more by residents of Princeton and Mercer County.

Henry A. Hill, a Princeton lawyer who flies his private plane out of Princeton Airport, urged that the supporters of the airport look far and wide for help. "Everyone's writing off the county but maybe we shouldn't," said Mr. Hill. "We need a larger constituency. There's no reason why Princeton Borough and Township and Montgomery and Somerset County can't work together."

The airport, Mr. Hill pointed out, "is the kingpin" of Montgomery's planning efforts. "The town has planned around it, zoned the land around it for office and research purposes to buffer the airport from residential areas. If there's no airport, then the planning doesn't make much sense." If the airport were sold to a developer for other purposes, Mr. Hill contended, it could wreck havoc on the roadways of the surrounding municipalities, as well. "It's zoned for about 800,000 square feet on these 50 acres. That's roughly the size of Quaker Bridge Mall. Look what would happen to traffic if this airport goes."

Three Burglars Are Arrested After Resident Alerts Police

It all seems so easy when citizens get involved.

"We had an alert resident who heard something, investigated, called the police and as a result three burglars were apprehended," commented Chief Michael Carnevale.

Charged with burglary of a Borough apartment and possession of burglary tools is Joseph F. Caruso, 25, of Trenton, who is currently being held in the Mercer County Detention Center in lieu of $5,000 bail.

Charged with possession of stolen property and released later on complaint summonses were Joseph T. Caruso, 42, identified by police as Joseph F.'s father, and Suzanne Powell, 29. All three, police said, lived at the same address on Melrose Avenue.

quickly." One report said that the kidnappers shouted, as they drove away, that they belonged to Amol, described as the paramilitary arm of Lebanon's pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem sect.

A graduate of Princeton with the class of 1945, the 60-year-old educator was born in Beirut and is an expert in Oriental studies. His mother, Mary Bliss Dodge, died on June 9 in her home on Alexander Street at the age of 91. She was the grand-daughter of Daniel Bliss, founder of what later became the American University in Beirut. A dormitory for women students at the university is named Mary Dodge Hall in her honor.

Mr. Dodge's father, the late Bayard Dodge, was a former president of the American University. Mr. Dodge became acting president in July, 1981.

The incident began when a Spruce Street resident called police at 3:35 last Tuesday afternoon after she had heard the sound of breaking glass. Investigating, she observed someone crouched in the cellarway of a Spruce Street home, apparently trying to gain entrance. She gave police a description of the suspect.

While Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm was responding, he noticed a man who matched the description in the rear seat of a car on Linden Lane. He radioed a description of the car. The car was later seen on Harrison Street by Sgt. William Flitch and Ptl. Anthony Federico, who followed it out to Route 1 where they stopped it with the aid of West Windsor police.

The occupants — two men and a woman — were placed under arrest. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that 15 pieces of jewelry, including rings and bracelets, were recovered inside a shower hat hidden in the waistband of the younger Caruso. They had allegedly been stolen from an apartment on Spruce Street.

Chief Carnevale reported that all of the missing jewelry had been recovered. While police have not yet received an estimate of the value, he placed it in the "hundreds of dollars" range.

Airport

Mr. Hill urged that Montgomery Township Committee initiate any proposal to save the airport. "No one else will do anything unless the municipality is behind it," he said.

Township Committeeman Ray Hunt, standing behind Mr. Hill during the meeting, immediately offered his support in placing the item on the Committee's agenda for its next regularly scheduled meeting, Wednesday, August 4.

That flurry of activity followed more than an hour of talk in which a team from the state's Division of Aeronautics, headed by Arlene B. Feldman, and a financial specialist from the Department of Commerce and Economic Development, Jane Morris, attempted to offer information on ways in which the airport could be maintained as an airport.

"I can't promise you money," said Mrs. Feldman, "but there are ways we can help you and guide you. We encourage communities to acquire airports."

Miss Morris indicated that funds were available from the Department of Community Affairs' small cities program that might help Montgomery Township acquire the airport and then lease it to an operator. The creation of an airport authority, she said, "has a lot of merit as a means of issuing tax free bonds for capital needs." Her own agency could make money available to a private operator of the airport at 30 percent below the prime rate.

The state representatives cited the example of Essex County Airport, which several years ago was in similar straits. It was taken over by an improvement authority operating with 90 percent federal funding and now is thriving.

Attacking the State. Some citizens at the meeting, which was called by Princeton Airport owner David Van Dyke, were skeptical of the state's offers of assistance.

"This may sound cynical but where have you been up to now?" asked Nick Carnevale, president of Walter B. Howe Inc., the insurance company. "This airport has been in trouble for 10 years. There have been two failures here. The research park idea has long since been tried. We have engineering drawings showing buildings lining the runways. This is beginning to sound like another state operation — we don't need to start up a whole new research program."

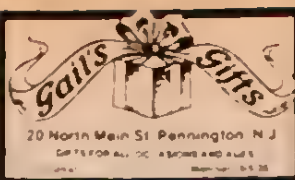

But others at the meeting were ready to work with the state. "I don't think attacking the state will solve the problems at hand," said Mr. Hill.

"We're here to save Princeton Airport," said Jim Lewald, general manager of the Princeton Airways, the commuter airline that just ceased operations at the airport. "I know someone now who would buy the airport and then lease it back to a private operator with those costs. The only way it's going to work is through public ownership."

While this small ray of hope glimmered for maintaining the airport as an airport, no one at this meeting harbored any illusions that commuter air service could be resurrected there. Princeton Airways' landing rights at the three airports it served all have been sold to other airlines serving other communities.

New Assistant Superintendent of Schools Brings a Variety of Talents to the Position

He'd been in his new job only two days — hardly long enough to find where they keep the paperclips. Suddenly, Jamie McKenzie — Princeton's new assistant superintendent of schools, poet-songwriter, modest guitar player, ex-mayor, wizard in teaching kids about computers, grantsmanship expert — was hit with the half-million school aid cut.

With school board president Ann McGoldrick and business administrator Judy Horner, he wrote the position paper that board representatives took to legislators in Trenton, explaining why Princeton needed that half million.

As one-time mayor of Raritan Township, member of the legislative committee of the New Jersey State Principals Association, and lobbyist for money for educating gifted students, he knew his way around Trenton. But he did not go to the capital with the board representatives.

"I've always avoided making 'contacts,'" he explains. "It's better for an administrator to be away from partisan politics. Working on the position paper was a proper research, philosophical role for a professional administrator. Speaking to legislators was not."

Familiar with Princeton. Boyish in appearance, resembling a young Bobby Kennedy, Mr. McKenzie is excited about Princeton — "It has the resources to be in the vanguard, doing things nobody else is doing." And although he now lives in Flemington, he's familiar with Princeton, and taught Sunday School for four years at the Unitarian Church.

Earlier in his career, he'd introduced six- and seven-year-olds to the computer, and he's "excited" — a word he uses often — about the introduction of computers at the elementary school level in Princeton.

"We're going to use LOGO, designed by M.I.T. for kids," he says. "With LOGO, kids in second and third grades can do a complex program. We'll begin with the fourth and fifth grades, extending downward each year as new machines are bought."

"Princeton Can Be in the Vanguard"

Forward lean. "Forward lean" is a favorite McKenzie term. It's what he sees happening to young bodies when children are captivated by what's going on in the classroom.

"Too often, kids are in a passive role, like a vessel being filled. But Princeton has a commitment to kids' being active — teaching them how to inquire, how to ask questions, how to think for themselves, how to see the connections between learning and society — 'Why am I learning this?'"

"I see it as 'beyond the basics.' Skills are very important in computing and reading, but the major thing is competence in solving problems."

"I am most excited about the quality of the teaching staff in Princeton — it's our greatest resource."

"A district can do a lot to keep a teacher's job exciting, and to give teachers a sense of ownership, help them deal with all the state mandates so that the mandates don't interfere with teaching."

Each Child Talented. Two things, among many, he wants to do. Opposed to a narrow definition of "gifted" and an IQ cut-off, Mr. McKenzie applauds Princeton's position that most all children are talented in some respect.

Find out what's special with each child, he urges, and do something about it. Maybe, in third grade, a child is a poet. But the fourth grade teacher isn't enthusiastic about poetry, so the poet fades.

"Once identified, keep track of that gift and pass along the information," he advises. "And giftedness must be related to the regular program, which must be responsive to these kids, whether they're poets or runners or mathematicians."

The other thing he'd like, is to continue to hone his skills in grantsmanship. As a principal in Metuchen, he got $37,000 for his district from the Geraldine Dodge Foundation. As mayor of Raritan, he raised $100,000 in corporate donations and gifts from property owners.

"I hope," he says, "to do the same things here."

Suddenly a Song-Writer. The song-writing began quite suddenly, last September and he's written 30 songs since then: children's songs, love songs, songs of social protest, even a song about the bag-women in New York City.

Mostly, the tunes come into his head first. Then he comes up with the lyrics.

"Most kids improvise like crazy — they write songs all the time until they're five or six. Then, they get this idea that all music is Great Masters.

"I feared the possibility of being cut off from classrooms, so I'm going to teach poetry to Princeton kids, the way I've done it before. I'll be in the schools every day, on a published schedule, from 8 in the morning. I won't be in my office until 9:30.

"You teach them how to get in touch with their own voices — using flowers or music, to see and hear. Get them to make word lists of what they want to express, then go back and form them into a pattern. But not just rhymes.

"There's a lot of peer pressure — if you say something poetic about a cloud, everybody laughs and you're discouraged."

As a modest guitar player, sometimes with his daughters, ages 11 and 13, he used to have sing-alongs at his school. With a grin, he says they were very successful. "It was an uncritical, forgiving audience."

Involvement with the state aid cut didn't end with completion of the position paper. Mr. McKenzie will be an active agent of the school board in whatever actions the board takes. He will quite probably find it "exciting" — maybe even worth a song of social protest.

James W. Gramentine

HEADMASTER NAMED

By Princeton Day. James W. Gramentine of Ann Arbor, Michigan, has been appointed headmaster of Princeton Day School, effective July, 1983. Sanford Bing will serve as acting headmaster for the 1982-83 school year.

Dr. Gramentine is at present headmaster of Greenhills School, an independent coeducational day school for 300 students, grades seven through twelve. He will have completed eight years in that position when he moves to Princeton.

In addition to the duties regularly associated with headmastership, Mr. Gramentine teaches a course in International Relations at Greenhills and is the immediate past president of the Association of Independent Michigan Schools.

Prior to his being awarded a B.A. degree in Government, with distinction, by Wesleyan University in 1956, where he held an Olin Scholarship during his undergraduate years, Mr. Gramentine was graduated from Western Reserve Academy, Hudson, Ohio, in 1952. He received his M.A. degree from The Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University, Medford, Massachusetts.

Mr. Gramentine began his career in independent schools as a teacher of history, coach of three sports and dormitory master at Western Reserve Academy. In 1966, he was appointed Director of College Guidance and was later named Director of Admissions and Financial Aids. In addition, he taught several history courses, was head coach of Varsity Wrestling and assisted in the coaching of football and track. Before joining Greenhills, he served as Assistant to the Headmaster at the University School in Chagrin Falls, Ohio, for three years.

Mr. Gramentine is married to the former Sara Newton Hallaran, who holds a B.A. degree in History from Wellesley College, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. In addition, she holds a Master's degree in Education from Western Reserve University. Mr. and Mrs. Gramentine are the parents of a son and daughter, both alumni of Greenhills and now attending Carleton College in Northfield, Minnesota.

MURDER SUSPECT

Police Refuse Comment. Derrick Hardwick, the Ewing Township resident who has been indicted for the rape of three Princeton women, is the prime suspect in the murder of 19-year-old Maura Gottlieb, according to stories published last week in the Trenton newspapers. However, officials handling the case have refused comment.

"I have no comment," said Township Chief Frederick Porter Tuesday. Township police became involved from the start in the Gottlieb murder when her body was found March 6 floating in the Delaware & Raritan Canal near Harrison Street by a Township couple out for a walk.

Chief Porter commented that he was surprised to see a report of the alleged involvement of Hardwick appear in the papers. His only other comment was the investigation was still being continued by Lt. Norman Servis, Det. Samuel Bianco and Det. Frank Bocanuso of his department in conjunction with the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office.

Mercer County Prosecutor Philip S. Carchman also refused to comment and would neither confirm nor deny that the 23-year-old Hardwick is the key suspect in the murder. "Ms. Gottlieb's murder is still under investigation. I cannot comment any further," he said.

The Trenton Times had quoted "police sources" as saying Hardwick has been a suspect in the case since he tried to abduct a woman in Princeton on March 16.

Hardwick has been held in Mercer County Jail since May 22 when he was unable to make $300,000 bail set by Judge A. Jerome Moore, after he was arraigned for two counts of rape.

A former Rutgers University student, Miss Gottlieb was last seen alive around 11 p.m. on March 6 when she left work at a telephone answering service on the corner of Harrison and Nassau Street. The resident of Lawrence Township had told friends that she was going to hitchhike home.

Her body was found eight days later in the canal. Two days after that, her knapsack was found on Raymond Road by two South Brunswick Township road workers not far from the Scanticon International Complex off Route 1.

Hardwick was arrested the morning of March 29 when he returned to Scanticon where he was employed. Around 1 a.m. he allegedly attempted to abduct an employee by taping her eyes shut and throwing her into his car. He allegedly put a knife in her mouth and threatened to kill her.

When Hardwick left the car to change position, the victim managed to lock the car doors and rip the tape from her eyes. She attempted to run Hardwick down after she slid over to the drivers' seat. She provided police with a detailed description of her assailant.

Hardwick has been charged with the rape of two 16-year-old Township girls on Sept. 11 and with the Oct. 21 rape of a

96 and Climbing

The highest recorded temperature in Princeton was 97, on Monroe Road Sunday afternoon. Dan Mazzarella, of Science Associates, got only 96 on Magnolia Lane, and he suspects the Princeton Shopping Center.

Because Leith Holloway, meteorologist at the Geophysical Fluid Dynamics Laboratory who lives on Monroe, consistently found life one degree hotter than Mr. Mazzarella on Magnolia: 95 on Saturday, compared with 94, 96 late Saturday compared to 95. Like that.

Blacktop and the expanse of buildings at the Shopping Center are heat-producers, Mr. Mazzarella is convinced. He says, for example, that sail-plane hobbyists like the air over Scanticon, because expanses of hot pavement and buildings make nice thermals. Well, it takes all kinds.

That windblown rain Monday night was a spotty thing: Mr. Mazzarella recorded only .19 inches, but Mr. Holloway had .3, and in case you've been wondering all these weeks, it rained 1.35 inches on July 3.

To Enter Apartment. An intruder climbed a tree to enter a second-floor apartment on Spring Street between 9 Monday morning and 2 in the afternoon. He left carrying men's clothing valued at $101 and items of jewelry valued at $190. It marked the second time this month that a tree had been used to gain access to a Borough apartment.

A window on the north side of a Harrison Street home was forced open during the weekend. Taken were 10 to 15 necklaces, 10 to 15 bracelets and several earrings. The victim is a 14-year-old, police said.

Between 1 and 9:20 Saturday evening, a thief cut a second-floor window screen to enter a Nassau Street apartment.

Taken was jewelry, including an antique beaded necklace, a gold ring and a silver ring. Police have not yet received an estimate of the value.

A camera and guitar, with a combined value of $680, were stolen last week from an apartment in the Stanworth project. The intruder, police report, pried open the front door to get inside.

In the Township, Chief Frederick Porter listed a series of sneak thefts in the Jefferson Road-Moore Street area. Because of the hot weather, residents are leaving their windows and doors open at night and a sneak thief is taking advantage, Chief Porter theorized.

A Jefferson Road resident lost her pocketbook from the kitchen when a thief slid open a living room screen to enter the house. Inside: her leather wallet containing $45, a state income tax return check for $255.70, commuter tickets worth $75 and personal papers. The victim's total loss: $440.

About the same time—12:30 to 3 Saturday morning, someone entered a home on Moore Street, taking a purse from a bedroom. It contained $20 and a $200 bite plate. The intruder pushed in the screen of a rear door and unlocked it to gain entry.

Another Moore Street home was entered between 11 and 4:10 Saturday morning. A pouch taken from an interior hallway was recovered later in bushes outside a neighbor's home. Once again, entry was gained by cutting the screening of a rear door.

Earlier in the week, a Linden Lane resident listed the theft of a $300 camera from a living room bookshelf. The thief entered through an unlocked side door, police said.

When an intruder kicked open a door leading from the garage to the kitchen of a Princeton-Kingston Road home last week, he broke the door frame causing an alarm to sound. Ptl. Mario Musso responded to the 12-14 alarm and reported that it appears as if nothing had been touched by the intruder before he fled.

VICTIM TO THIEF: HEY

Thief to Victim: Hey. When a Nassau Street apartment dweller, who keeps his bicycle chained to a sign post on Nassau was awakened by a noise at 5:53 Tuesday morning, he looked out and saw a man riding off with his bike.

"Hey!" the victim shouted. Police report that the thief responded with a "Hey" of his own and continued riding north on Moore Street. The victim's used model bicycle is valued at $50.

The suspect is described as a six-foot, well-built black male with medium cropped hair. He was wearing white shorts and a white short-sleeved shirt.

Another bicycle, valued at $229, was taken last week from the front porch of a Witherspoon Street resident. Police report that it had been locked to the porch.

A Plainsboro resident listed the theft of a $46.62 hubcap from his car while it was parked last week in the University Store lot off University Place, and a battery valued at $61.99 was taken from the car of a Birch Avenue resident while it was parked during a two-week period in the rear of the victim's home.

A $406.35 mm camera was stolen from the front seat of an unlocked truck while it was parked for a ten-minute period Monday morning on Elm Drive on the university Campus. Police identified the victim as a Hamilton Township resident.

Plant Theft. Two four-foot potted Dracenas plants, placed outside the Princeton Flower Shop, 306 Alexander Street, to be picked up by a customer, were stolen early Thursday afternoon. They were valued at $35 each. Also taken, police said, were six asparagus ferns in white hanging baskets valued at $10 each.

NO PERMIT, NO SALES
Magazine Solicitors Grounded. Two New York residents have been charged by Township police with soliciting without a permit, after they were arrested last week attempting to sell magazines door-to-door in the Riverside area.

Andre Johnson, 19, of Brooklyn and Darryl L. Miller, 18, of the Bronx were heard before Township Judge Sydney Souter the some evening and each fined $50. Police said both are employed by American Community Service, Inc.

Nell A. Van Arsdale of Mercerville was arrested and charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol at 12:10 Saturday morning, after he was observed driving in an erratic manner on Route 206 near Leigh Avenue.

Mr. Van Arsdale was stopped by Ptl. Robert Buchanan on 206 near Constitution Drive, transported to headquarters and given a Breathalyzer test. He was later released in $25 bail, pending his court appearance on Tuesday.

In the Borough, three Princeton youths, two 16 and one 17 years old, were arrested in Marquand last Wednesday evening and charged with possession of alcohol.

The three, according to Sgt. Peter Hanley, were drinking beer and Jack Daniels whiskey. All were later referred to Borough juvenile office Det. William Clark for further action.

William Wolfe of Hawthorne Avenue was charged last week with trespassing in the pool area at the Woodrow Wilson building plaza. He was released after being issued a complaint summons signed by a member of Princeton University security.

MAN IS CHARGED
With Criminal Sexual Contact. A North Brunswick resident has been charged with the criminal sexual contact of a 16-year old Kendall Park youth.

The suspect, identified by police as 41-year old Richard Schan of Hidden Lakes Drive, was later released in $250 bail.

According to police, the victim was sitting at a Nassau and Witherspoon Street bus stop at 1 p.m. Friday when Schan allegedly came up to him and attempted to solicit a sexual act. After Schan had also allegedly made sexual contact with his victim, the youth called police from a nearby police box.

Ptl. Rudy Sutton reinvested the description to patrol cars and the suspect was later stopped on Charlton Street, placed under arrest and charged.

VISITOR IS VICTIM
Of Assault on Campus. A 27-year old Ohio resident, visiting a student for the summer at Brown Hall on the Princeton University campus, was the victim of an assault early Monday morning.

Upon hearing a noise around

12:25 a.m. in an entryway to Brown Hall, the victim went to investigate, police said, and was struck a hard blow in the chest, which knocked him to the ground. His assailant then attempted to strike him with a tire iron, which the victim managed to avoid.

University security and police responded to a call for assistance, but the suspect was gone before they arrived. The victim was treated at Princeton Medical Center for a possible fracture of the right ankle.

Police described the suspect as a white male, 5'7" to 5'8", 140 pounds, with short hair, thin mustache, wearing blue jeans, sneakers and a dark-colored short-sleeve shirt.

BOTH DRIVERS CHARGED
In Rosedale Road Crash. After investigating the scene and interviewing both drivers, Ptl. Anthony Gaylord determined that both had caused an accident late Saturday night on Rosedale Road at Province Line that left both cars total wrecks.

He charged one driver, Jeffrey S. Brunner, 19 of Lawrenceville, with improper passing and the other, Catherine M. Ager, 18, Carson Road, with failure to give a proper signal. Miss Ager was treated for leg injuries; an 18-year-old passenger in her car from Oxford, England, sustained contusions and abrasions of the head.

Mr. Brunner told Ptl. Gaylord that he was traveling west on Rosedale. The Ager car in front had on its right turn signal, indicating a right turn onto Province Line. He started to pass in a no passing zone, police said -- when the Ager car made a left turn and he struck the car in the left, front door.

Ms. Ager stated that she had her left turn indicator on for a left turn onto Province Line. In his report, Ptl. Gaylord noted that Ms. Ager had prior knowledge that her left turn signal was not working properly.

Moped Hits Pole. William D. Nahstedt, 24, 1 Lakeview Avenue, Kingston, was injured last week when his moped went out of control on Nassau Street near Maple Street. It struck a pole and bounced back, throwing Mr. Nahstedt to the roadway.

He was taken to the Medical Center where he was treated and admitted for observation. Police said he sustained a contusion of the arm, abrasions of the neck, face, head and right arm.

Mr. Nahstedt, an employee at the Alchemist and Barrister Restaurant on Witherspoon Street, had been heading north on Nassau shortly before 2 in the morning when his brother Eric of Kendall Park, walking on Nassau between Linden Lane and Maple, saw him

If You're Going To Make It Financially Today, You Need Bankers Who Think Bigger Than Teddy Bears And Toaster Ovens.

Don't get us wrong. We think premiums are fine. In fact, at Security, we've been known to offer some nifty gifts ourselves.

But today it takes more than premiums to help you cut it financially.

It takes big ideas. Ideas that do more than just help you survive, you need ideas that help you prosper.

And recently we began offering mortgages that were substantially lower than current interest rates to give first-time home buyers a shot at the American Dream.

We even came up with a program for home buyers and sellers, called the Home Seller Incentive Plan. It made selling a home easier, by offering low mortgage rates to buyers.

Even the little things we do we consider big ideas if they make banking a little easier for you.

Like Saturday hours, Drive-Through Windows, and new offices in retirement communities.

And just recently, we acquired Princeton Savings & Loan to extend our services and philosophy to more people in New Jersey.

One Big Idea After Another.

At Security, we're doing all we can to give you the products and services you need.

That's why we introduced the Security Repurchase Agreement that lets you earn big interest without tying up your money.

And our 91-Day Certificates. The short-term, high interest certificates for people who can't wait six months or more to earn big interest.

We also created three IRA plans that let you tell the tax man who's boss.

And home improvement loans that let you decide how to spend the money.

Security Takes The Lead.

It's only natural that when you're a leader, people notice.

Security was listed as a High Performance Savings & Loan last year, as well as the most profitable savings & loan in our assets category.

In the first six months of this year, we once again posted a profit—an impressive accomplishment for any financial organization these days.

Our Best Idea.

At Security, we're justifiably proud of the ideas and services we provide for our clients.

And yet, we're still not satisfied.

Because as far as we're concerned, the key to financial success for you—and us—is to keep the big ideas coming. Day after day, year after year.

And that, we believe, is our best idea yet.

"What will they think of next?"

BRECHT, WITH MUSIC
At NewStage. Audiences who saw the first performances of the Brecht-Weill musical "Happy End," still had "Three Penny Opera" in mind, and they greeted the new production with something approaching riot, and the play closed the next day.

Now, "Happy End" will be back again, this time at Murray Theatre in NewStage's production. It's in a new translation by Michael Feingold originally presented in the early 1970s by Yale Repertory. The show then went to New York, where its central character was played by Meryl Streep.

"Happy End" will open this Thursday and will run through August 1. Performance times are 7:30 Thursdays and Sundays and 8 Fridays and Saturdays. Murray Theatre is on the Princeton University campus.

The play is set in Chicago in 1919 and involves small-time gangsters, the Salvation Army and a Salvation Army lass named Hallelujah Lillian. It is she who saves gangster Bill Cracker from jail and eternal damnation.

A multi-level set has been designed by Bob Stern. Martha Bennett is designing the costumes and Steven Gaissert, the lighting. Jeff ANYWAY, HE LOOKS HAPPY: Here is David Weidiss in "Happy End," opening this Thursday at Murray Theatre for a two week-end run. In this rehearsal shot, Sharon Kelly seems to have gun in hand, but maybe you'd better check out the revival of the Kurt Weill-Bertolt Brecht musical and see for yourself. It's being produced by NewStage, and Murray Theatre is on the Princeton University campus.

Kanfield is musical director. Overall direction is under Tom Coll.

About that opening night, back in the 1930s — there are three accounts of the final speech, given by a character named Fly, the brains behind the gangsters. One account says that the actress read straight propaganda from the Communist Party; another account says the words were Brecht's own and a third says the actress wrote the speech herself.

In any case, it was apparently the content of that speech that closed the play the next day.

A TRIPLE

At Summer Cinema, Three features — count 'em: three — will be shown next week at Kresge Auditorium in the Frick Chemical Building, Washington Road, as the next installment in McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema series. The trio will be screened from Wednesday, July 21 through Sunday, July 25.

First we have "Coal Miner's Daughter," with Sissy Spacek in the role that won her an Oscar nomination. Then it's Bette Midler portraying the late Janis Joplin in "The Rose" and finally, in a midnight special on Friday and Saturday, "The Last Waltz," a filmed record of the farewell concert by The Band.

"Coal Miner's Daughter" is based on the autobiography of country singer Loretta Lynn, following her from an impoverished childhood through her teenage marriage (she was 13) to her realization of talent and final superstardom. Besides Sissy, the cast includes Tommy Lee Jones as Loretta's husband-manager, Levon Helm as her father and Beverly D'Angelo as country singer Patsy Cline.

"The Rose" has "Divine Miss M" falling apart because of overwork, drugs and booze. She sketches a portrait of a gifted but tormented woman who quite literally sings her heart out. Alan Bates plays the tough and scheming manager and Frederic For, Washington Road, as the next installment in McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema series. The trio will be screened from Wednesday, July 21 through Sunday, July 25.

"The Last Waltz," which will be shown at midnight Friday and Saturday, is a record of the concert given at San Francisco's Winterland on Thanksgiving Day, 1976. The film includes 12 of the songs produced by The Band, and

"Summer Sounds." The TV Hefcats, or Harry Pulone and Doug Miller, will play Community Park North this Thursday at 7:30 because they are next in the Summer Sounds series of free concerts. The concerts are sponsored by the Arts Council of Princeton with the Princeton Recreation Department and a grant from the Youth Fund. The CP amphitheatre is off the Mountain Avenue exit of Route 206, at the foot of Bayard Lane.

MUSIC
In Princeton

Described by one critic as "the last outstanding folk group in this area," the Hefcats offer old blues, ragtime, jive and even old-fashioned torch songs, along with a contemporary tune or two. Fats Waller, Hoagy Carmichael, Scott Joplin, George Gershwin, Cole Porter — sound familiar? Pulone sings and plays guitar, ukelele and harmonica. Miller is on acoustic piano and accordion.

Future concerts will be The Spiritual Energy Collective — a new-wave jazz band — on August 5 and the Sourland Mountain String Band, a bluegrass outfit, on August 5. For all concerts, raindates are the following night. Danny Kruger, director of Summer Sounds, says more events may be scheduled for later in August.

WOODWINDS
In Summer Concert. Woodwinds on a summer evening — the Boehm Quintette will be the next group in the Summer Outdoor Chamber Concert Series, booked for performance on Tuesday, July 27. The free concert will be given in the courtyard of the Graduate College, or if rain threatens, in Alexander Hall. Concert-goers should call 924-2353 the afternoon of the event if the weather is uncertain. The program will consist of the Quintet No. 3 by Giovanni Giuseppe Cambini; Three Spanish Pieces by Manuel Defalla, a quintet by Joseph B. Foerster and a composition by Norman Dello Joio composed especially for the Boehm.

Performers will be Sheryl Henze, flute; Phyllis Lanini, oboe; Don Stewart, clarinet; Joseph Anderer, horn and Michael Finn, bassoon. Those who attend are advised to take blankets or folding chairs because no seating is provided. Cars may be parked in the lot adjoining the Graduate College, accessible from Springdale Road. Although the concert is free, contributors may send a tax-deductible check payable to the Trustees of Princeton University, to "Summer Chamber Concerts," Woolworth Center, Princeton University, 08544.

MUSIC FOR YOUR EARS
Wide Variety at Westminster. Ray Robinson, president of Westminster Choir College, will be the conductor of the sixth and last Summer Sing Tuesday, July 27 at 8 in Bristol Chapel on the Westminster campus. The Vivaldi "Gloria" and Stravinski "Symphony of Psalms" will be read. The chapel is air-conditioned; singers may bring their own scores or borrow them from the college. Dr. Robinson, a violist and conductor as well as a college administrator, has been a choral adjudicator for many festivals here and abroad. In June he conducted the Honors Choirs for the State of Missouri and he will be a conductor for the New York Choral Society later in the summer.

On July 22 in Bristol Chapel, Judith Nicosia and Harriet McCleary will give a recital which will include soprano duets by Handel, J.C. Bach, Marazzoli, Grimm, Schumann, Gade, Mendelssohn and Delibes. Miss Nicosia was one of ten nationwide winners of the National Opera Institute Career Awards and a Mattheus Sullivan Award winner for career advancement. She has recently sung major recitals in New York, at Harvard, and with the Quebec Symphony. Miss McCleary is on the faculty of the Westminster Conservatory and on the music staff of All Saints' Church. The two singers will be accompanied by Kazuko Uno, a Westminster graduate student in piano performance.

Jay Rozendaal, a 1982 Westminster piano performance major and a pupil of William Cheadle, will play the Beethoven "Appassionata Sonata," "Concerto No. 1 in E Flat Major" of Liszt and his own "Sonata for Piano" at 7pm on July 26 in the Playhouse. Following the piano recital, Erik Routley will hold the last Hymn Sing of the Summer Session in Bristol Chapel at 8pm.

A chamber music recital, Amy Wolfe, flute, JoAnne Haasler, violin, and Marianne Lauffer, piano, is on the schedule for July 27 at 7 in Williamson Hall. The three will play a "Trio Sonata in F Major" by Jean Baptiste Loellet, "Four Duets for Violin and Flute" (from the "Magic Flute") arranged by Mozart himself, "Five Pieces," Cesar Cui, and Martinu "Madrigal Sonata." Mmes. Wolfe and Lauffer are members of the Westminster Conservatory faculty and Ms. Haasler is a free-lance violinist in New York and a faculty member of Brooklyn College.

A bassoon and harpsichord recital will be given by Robert Quiles and his wife, Deborah

COUNTRY MICE OR CITY MICE? Hard to tell. With all those whiskers they might even be cool cats. Whoever they are pretending to be, they are really teenage acting students in the Trenton Artists Showcase Theatre production of "The Adventures of the Country Mouse."

Mayhew on July 28 at 7 p.m. in Williamson Hall. The program will include: "Concerto in B Flat," Vivaldi; "Bassoon Sonata in F minor," Telemann; Couperin "Suite for Harpsichord;" "Summer Solstice" by Sherwood Shaffer; Quiles is a free-lance bassoonist, a pupil of Arthur Weissberg; Mayhew is a graduate student at Westminster and is the organist at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Bound Brook. She will play the college's new DuPre Flemish-style harpsichord.

The Cheadle Piano Duo, well-known in the area, will give two recitals: on July 29 and August 5 — both in the Playhouse at 8 p.m. The first concert will feature a first performance of a "Sonatina" by William Cheadle and the second concert, a first performance of "Sonata for Two Pianos" (1981) by Erik Routley, hymnologist, clergyman, writer and composer, which was written for the Cheadles.

William and Louise Cheadle will include on their first program: "Variations on 'Yankee Doodle';" "Two Hungarian Dances," Brahms; "Jamaicalyso," Benjamin; "Lisinka" (Gayne) by Aram Khatchadurian. The August 5th program will include: "Suite, Opus 23," Arensky and William Cheadle's "Picture Postcards."

FOR CHILDREN

Mouse Musical. When a country mouse named Wilbur meets a pair of Ziegfeld show mice strictly from the city, the fastidious Dudley mouse, four very cool cats and a rat named Hugo — well!

Young audiences can find out what happens at "The Adventures of the Country Mouse," very loosely adapted from Aesop's fable by Artists Showcase Theatre in Trenton, and acted by a cast of high-school students from the Delaware Valley area.

Because it's Teenage Festival Week-end at the theatre, there will also be presentations by young artists chosen previously by audition. They will appear at the evening performances and Sunday afternoon at 4.

Show schedules are: this Friday at 7:30 p.m., Saturday at 11 a.m., 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 1:30 and 4. The theatre is at 1150 Indiana Avenue in Trenton, and more details may be obtained by calling 392-2433 or 466-0648.

This is the first production for YAS — the Young Artists Showcase players, under the direction of Carolyn Viola. The adaptation of the fable about the country mouse and the city mouse, was made by Feather Schwartz and Susan Kerrigan.

'SOUTH PACIFIC'

At Bucks County. Earlier in the season, "South Pacific" played to standing-room-only at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope, so the Playhouse has brought it back again, "one week only." It will play through Sunday, July 25. Reservations at 215-862-2041.

This is the musical by Rodgers and Hammerstein based on James Michener's "Tales of the South Pacific." You'll remember the songs: "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Out of My Hair," "Bali Hai," "Some Enchanted Evening," "There is Nothing Like a Dame."

MUSIC AT WATERLOO
All Kinds. Music ranging from contemporary chamber works to symphonic classics to jazz will be heard over the next weeks under the auspices of Waterloo Village in Stanhope.

This Friday, the Chamber Music Concert Series will present a concert in Lenell Hall of Fairleigh Dickinson University in Madison. The program will include Elliott Carter's "Pastorale," Ludwig Thuille's Sextet for Piano and Winds, Opus 6, Max Reger's Trio for Flute, Violin and Viola, Mozart's Quartet for Oboe and Strings and the Bach Brandenburg Concerto Number 2.

IN BATTLEFIELD PARK

"Midsummer Night's Dream." Over hill, over dale — this is the week-end for the McCarter Theatre Shakespeare Summer production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Acted by the young students in Shakespeare Summer, whose age range is 10 to 18, the sylvan comedy will be given four times: this Saturday and Sunday at 3 and 7:30 p.m. The theatre is the north side of Princeton Battlefield Park, around the Greek columns that are visible from Mercer Road.

To give everyone a chance, director Veronica Brady has done multiple-casting except for leading characters, each of whom will be played by only one actor. Other parts will be portrayed by a different actor in each of the four performances.

Angelique Thun will be Titania, the fairy queen, and Richard Eigen, Oberon, king of the fairies. Tom Reese will play Bottom and Joseph Dewan, Quince. The four lovers will be Elizabeth Hutchinson (Hermia), Dan Winer (Lysander), Dan Studney (Demetrius) and Julie Saladino (Helena).

Other roles and their actors are: Theseus, Duke of Athens (Mark Collins and Kieran Williams); Egeus (Miriam Aronoff and Laura Spinale); Philostrate, master of the revels (Maggie Westergaard and Catherine Sanderson).

Hippolyta, queen of the Amazons (Sally Wright and Roseanne McEwen); Puck (Aron Rosenberg, with auxiliary Pucks Milo Kogan and Jared Reed).

Also Flute (Clark Berens and T.J. Cluff); Snug (Erin Bogen and Lisa Schott); Starveling (Micah Perfit and Fiona MacRae); Snout (Ned Higgins and Lisey Good); First Fairy (Christine Champion and Liz Grillo) and Fairies (Jasmine Ferrara, Rebecca Rhodes, Rebecca Gantwerk, Karen Giariusso and Lydia York).

Wrong Decision on Chief
To the Editor of Town Topics:
I find the Township Council's decision on Chief of Police hard to take without voicing some form of protest. Their decision to bypass Lt. Jack Petrone in their quest for a new Chief of Police is very hard to comprehend.

Let me make it perfectly clear that the man they chose is a fine man and I am sure he will do the job. It's the fact that they ignored a man who has done so much for the community over the past 25 years.

If the members of our town council actually had any knowledge of what has gone on in our community over the past couple of decades, they would have known how many hours Lt. Petrone has dedicated to youth activities in Princeton. Maybe these hours would have been better spent issuing tickets to our town's citizens. That is something that our town council may have recognized and rewarded.

I know that being deeply involved in youth activities does not necessarily qualify a man for the position of Chief of Police, but it sure should weigh heavily in the decision. Princeton Township isn't a large city and the position of Chief of Police is primarily one of public relations.

So who could you better place in that position. The man who has done more for this community and its citizens than any other law enforcement officer this town has ever had. His name is synonymous with Princeton Police. I am glad that he contributed those many hours helping the children of our community grow up because he loved doing it and not for the recognition that he will never receive. The people who now reside on our township council sure weren't impressed by this type of dedication.

Maybe his biggest problem was the few controversies he was involved with over the years. I have witnessed all of these events and was very pleased with the way he handled each situation. He never compromised his beliefs or responsibilities in the face of people whom he knew could cause him trouble. These problems were well documented in our local papers.

It appears these few episodes have come back to haunt him. If these few detractors are the type of people who can influence our town's leaders, then our town is in the wrong hands. Anybody who is in the public eye as much as Lt. Petrone is bound to upset a few people. The large majority came away with a favorable impression though, after dealing with him.

I have lived in this community for 26 years and have watched police promotions for many of those years. The results never fail to amaze me. What is it that these people use as criteria for promotion? Do they change from person to person? Somehow, I think that they are using all the wrong criteria to decide, or maybe we just have the wrong people deciding.

When the town council cannot make the most obvious decisions, with what decisions can we trust them? In a case you are not aware of it, our police force is 75 percent out of town residents and within a few years it will be comprised of 100 percent out of town residents. Is this the way it should be in our community? Maybe we should open up our next mayoral election to anybody in the County. Lt. Petrone was probably our last chance to have a Princeton Township resident occupy the position of Chief of Police.

This letter may seem like sour grapes, which it could correctly be construed as. The main reason for it though, is because the town council had its say which is final, but I could not sit here with my mouth shut when our own council exercises such poor judgement in choosing our town's leading officials.

It is not the first time and I am sure it will not be the last. I also wished to point out the type of criteria which this board just seems to pass over in making their decisions for promotion. Maybe that is because these are the same type of criteria that none of them have ever exercised in our community.

It should be noted that Lt. Petrone is my father and another lousy decision by our town's political brain trust cannot detract from the years of service that you have given to our community.

PCH Site Not Feasible

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Senior citizens are not small children for whom their elders make their decisions; therefore, they should be consulted as to where they would prefer to live.

The location on Elm Road is not a feasible one for two reasons: 1) It does not suit the character of that particular neighborhood, and 2) most senior citizens would be housed because of lack of transportation. Specific bus time is inconvenient.

Hence, why not make a greater effort to obtain the Kopp land and the adjacent land owned by George Warnecke? The Shopping Center does not seem prosperous since the malls have sprung up so it may be an opportune time.

Further, let us impress on the architects chosen for this project that excellent housing for the elderly has been built elsewhere. The quality of housing for the seniors in Princeton is poor.

For instance, in Wayland, Massachusetts, there is an outstanding example of handsome two-story housing in an area convenient to shopping. One of the most outstanding features of these attractive apartments is that should one fall, for instance, anywhere in an apartment, all one has to do is to edge to the baseboard; pull a cord and the outside apartment door unlocks, giving a signal to the Rescue Squad to enter.

Are the architects aware of the availability of this and other very necessary modern conveniences?

I'm Concerned Too.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
In the most recent edition of Town Topics, there appeared an article containing a statement by Ms. Ann McGoldrick, president, Princeton Regional School District Board of Education. In it she gives credit to my two 15th District Legislative colleagues, Senator Stockman and Assemblyman Watson for being responsive to Princeton's concerns at a recent meeting — as well she should.

What she forgot to mention, though, is that I was represented at the meeting by my aide, Ms. Sherri Stadler, who explained in Ms.

McGoldrick's presence that the only reason I was not personally present was because of the fact that a meeting of the Assembly Education Committee, of which I am vice-chairperson, was being held at exactly the same time said meeting relative to Princeton's plight was being conducted. Let me say, then, I certainly was, and still am, concerned about the aid cut of $524,000. Citizens in Princeton have been writing to as well as calling me.

I, as such, have not only been responding by mail, but via phone as well. As a professional educator myself, I realize full well the problems faced. I, also, am cognizant of the problems surrounding amelioration of this situation and actually discussed some of these same problems with Ms. McGoldrick over the phone only a few days after the cuts were announced. In this conversation, I asked for certain information I have yet to receive; and still, therefore, await. When I receive the information I seek, I can proceed to do all I can to help.

In any event, whereas it is Ms. McGoldrick's prerogative to exclude from her letter whomever she pleases, it is mine to let the people of Princeton know that I, as one of their Assembly representatives, am most concerned about this situation as well as hopeful that a fair solution can be brought to fruition as soon as possible. In closing, I just wish to say that my not being mentioned by Ms. McGoldrick should not be interpreted as uninterest on my part — a conclusion which could easily result for anyone not previously made aware of the aforementioned facts. Far from it!

Full Restoration Asked.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
While it would be helpful to our school finances if Senator Stockman is successful in restoring half of the $524,000 he originally voted to cut in aid to Princeton's Public Schools, I fail to see why the goal should not be full restoration of those funds.

A bill that would accomplish that restoration of $18.2 million dollars to eighty-six school districts has already been introduced in the Assembly by Minority Leader Dean A. Gallo and Assemblywoman Leanna Brown, both of Morris County.

Members of the Joint Appropriations Committee wanted to cut minimum aid to schools. It is hard to believe that Senator Stockman and the rest of the majority members of the Joint Appropriations Committee did not know that the cuts they voted for would include the Princeton School System.

I strongly suggest that Princetonians urge Senator Stockman to support the Gallo-Brown full restoration bill.

"Thanks" from Boychoir.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The following letter has been sent to Joe Stoye, president of the Princeton-West Windsor Kiwanis Club:

On behalf of the staff and students of the American Boychoir School, I want to thank the Princeton-West Windsor Kiwanis Club for the check representing the proceeds from the benefit concert this March.

The concert, which incidentally, marked the debut appearance by our interim conductor, Brad Richmond, was a great success and we are deeply grateful for the hard work that the Club — and especially Jack O'Leary — put into this project. We hope to be able to do similar events in the future as well!

Please extend our appreciation and thanks to the other officers and members of the Club and I look forward to working with you again.

riding by, and yelled to him, he told police.

When Mr. Nabstedt took his hand off the right handlebar to wave, he said, his moped veered off the road to the right, scraped the curb for 50 feet and then rammed into the pole. It came to rest some 45 feet away.

Ptl. Charles Duvall and Sgt. Ronald Holliday found the victim lying next to the Nassau Street curb. There were no charges.

DRIVER FINED $115

For Reckless Driving, In Borough traffic court Monday, Tony G. Intartaglia, 72 Linden Lane, was fined $100 and $15 court costs for reckless driving.

Lawrence R. Tremmel, 84 Roper Road, and Chilung Kang, 301 Gallup Road, were fined $22 each for speeding, while Franklyn B. VanHouten, 168 FitzRandolph, paid $15 for careless driving.

Overdue inspection violations cost Peter G. Brown, 17 Cold Soil Road, Lawrenceville, and Patrick M. Fallon, 2612 Fox Run Drive, Plainsboro, $15 each. Joy Wilson, 86 Nassau Street, paid $25 for failure to make repairs.

In Borough court last Wednesday, Judge Russell W. Annich fined Robert Camp of Newark $1,015 and revoked his driver's license for five years. It was his third drunk driving offense.

In Township court last week, Judge Sydney Souter fined Cynthia H. Chooljian, 63 Winfield Road, $40 for an improper turn, and Irene M. Stokes, 120 Jefferson Road, $40 for a stop sign violation.

Deborah J. Toth, 74 E. Prospect Street, Hopewell, paid two fines: $40 as an unlicensed driver and $30, failure to have car inspected.

WALLET FOUND

But Not Suspects. Township police are searching for two Hispanic males in conjunction with a wallet theft last week.

A blue wallet, the property of a Skillman resident, was found early Friday evening on a Dempsey Avenue lawn. According to police, it had been stolen earlier the same day from the victim's car while it was parked on Cuyler Avenue. Valued at $20, it contained personal papers and credit cards but no cash.

Two Hispanic men seen near the car are suspects. One is described as 5-8, thin, with short, black wavy hair wearing a white dress shirt open to the waist and beige slacks; the other as 5-8, medium stature, long hair, wearing a green shirt.

TEENAGER ARRESTED

On Borough Warrant. Timothy T. Martin, 18, of Waynesboro, Va., who has had run-ins with police here in the past, was arrested Monday afternoon by Township Ptl. Anthony Gaylord on S. Harrison Street.

Ptl. Gaylord had in his possession a Mercer County Juvenile Court bench warrant issued April 4 by Borough police, charging Martin with criminal trespassing and possession of a dangerous weapon.

Martin was later taken to the Mercer County Youth Detention Center to await further action.

FULL AGENDA

For Zoning Board. Plans for enlarging the Jewish Center buildings will be reviewed for preliminary and final site plan approval when the Borough Zoning Board meets this Naphtha in Water?

You'll remember that last week, neighbors of Harry's Brook suspected that naphtha was causing the milky appearance and non-milky odor of the Brook. Health inspectors were called. They took samples, and asked the state for permission to send the samples along.

Sorry, the state said. Not enough water in the samples. At least one litre is needed, and Princeton could send only 240 millilitres.

Next time, the state chemist said, call immediately and describe what you see, so we can tell you what to do. And that very day, Princeton's inspectors went to Trenton and picked up the bigger bottles.

Now, all they need is more — well, was it naphtha?

Thursday at 8 in Borough Hall.

The plans have the nod of the Environmental Design Review Committee, with several conditions. The EDRC met Monday night in a second session to review drainage problems, and added to revised drainage plans a way of handling water so that it will not drain into the yards of houses at the southern side of the Center.

It is expected that many of these neighbors will appear at the Zoning Board hearing. The Jewish Center is third on the agenda, after Princeton Community Housing, which is also expected to draw a crowd.

Other items on the agenda are the 182 Nassau office building, and a proposal to convert 164-66 Witherspoon from joint office-residential use to multi-family use.

DRIVE-IN BANK?

Ordinance to be introduced. A drive-in for Princeton Bank will be allowed at the Princeton Shopping Center under a zoning ordinance amendment scheduled for introduction this Wednesday. Township Committee will meet at 8 p.m., and because of the heat, the meeting will be held in Township Hall, which has better air-conditioning than the Valley Road building.

Whatever meetings Committee has during August, will be held in Township Hall.

The drive-in will be allowed in the northwest quadrant of the Center, beyond the M. Epstein building. Customers will enter the Shopping Center at the present northern entrance and drive to the drive-in. There will be no new entrance off North Harrison. Princeton Bank will lease a small plot for the drive-in from the Shopping Center. It will be a two-bay, two-window structure.

The Planning Board's Zoning Amendment Review Committee — ZARC — has endorsed the project, but has expressed some worries about additional traffic. Public hearing on the ordinance will be Wednesday, August 4.

In other business, Committee is scheduled to accept the new Mercer Road realignment at the Stony Brook bridge, and cancel the performance bond.

LIBRARY EVENTS SET
In Rocky Hill. The Mary Jacobs Library, 64 Washington Street, Rocky Hill, will show movies for preschoolers, aged 3½-5, this Tuesday, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Movies for school-aged children will be shown Thursday, July 29, from 3 to 4 p.m.

This program is free and open to the public. For information, call the library at 924-7073.

The Mary Jacobs Library also has an exhibit on the different types of rock music that are currently popular. The display, designed by Princeton High School student Chanda Willis, will be in the library until Wednesday, July 28.

RESCUE LEAGUE NAMED

As Beneficiary. Beck and Call, the assistance group of Princeton, has announced that it will donate 10 percent of all fees it receives for pet care service from August 1 through Labor Day to SAVE, the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League.

"It's our way of allowing cats and dogs who have good homes to help those who don't," said Helen Hersey, founder of Beck and Call. "I've always admired the vital work the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League does, and since they depend almost entirely on contributions, we hope that donating part of our pet care fees will help them keep up the good work."

The Princeton Small Animal Rescue League was started almost 25 years ago by people concerned with the welfare of lost and stray animals. Since then, homes have been found for more than 600 animals each year. Some years ago, with the help of interested people in the community, a small shelter was built on Herrontown Road. Here each animal is checked by a veterinarian and cared for until it is either claimed by the owner or placed in a suitable home. The driving force behind the league is Mrs. A.C. Graves.

"Many of our pet owning clients have made contributions to the league," said Ms. Hersey, "and we're hoping that our pledge will encourage them to give more." The pet care services include everything from driving them to the veterinarian to walking and feeding them when their owners are away. Beck and Call also provides a boarding service for small animals such as birds and fish.

More information about the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Graves, 921-6122.

Eric A. Pike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Pike, 101 Leabrook Lane, was one of 12 students selected to receive a national scholarship to attend the Champion-Graphic Arts Technical Foundation (GATF) Graphic Communications Orientation Program held at GATF's international headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa. last month.

Eric is currently a graphic design honor student at the Rhode Island School of Design, Providence, R.I. He graduated in 1979 from Princeton High School. Students were selected to receive this graphic communications educational opportunity following a national competition in which their designs were judged as exhibiting imaginative use of paper in relation to design, graphic techniques, and the unique use of the printing process.

The program seeks to provide the country's finest design and art students with a unique opportunity to learn about the mechanics and technology involved in the printing processes.

James K. Mellor, son of George L. and Virginia L. Mellor, 48 Pleasant Hill Road, has completed training in fundamental military skills at the Army ROTC basic camp at Fort Knox, Ky.

30-Year Career on Township Police Force To End Wednesday for Chief Fred Porter

When Township Chief Frederick Porter strides into his office this Wednesday, it will be for the last time. Wednesday will mark the end of a 30-year career which began October 27, 1952 - the last eleven as Chief.

After thirty years of service and dedication, it won't be easy. Though he admits he has been counting the days - officially his career will end November 1, but he is leaving early because of accumulated time off - Chief Porter concedes that leaving will be one of the hardest things he has done. "I do have a sense of remorse," he said. "After all, this has been my second home for 30 years."

"I have enjoyed my 30 years in the department, particularly with the men I've worked with ... all coming up through the ranks. I've enjoyed their loyalty and their dedication. Of course, we've had our ups and downs, but I love them all. I'll always remember them and I'll always assist them in any way I can."

Chief Porter described himself as low-key. Affable, with a quick smile and ready laugh -- often directed at himself -- he said, "I've always tried to stay away from opening any old doors to satisfy my ego."

Asked what he felt was his biggest accomplishment, Chief Porter replied, after some deliberation, "To be afforded the opportunity to serve the residents of this community as the executive officer of its police department."

"It's a goal (becoming chief) that every police officer likes to achieve, the outgoing

Chief Fred Porter
"Every decision a tough one"

Chief commented, echoing the remarks of his successor, Lt. Anthony Pinelli, who called it "the ultimate goal" when his appointment as Chief was announced last week by Township Committee.

"Everyone isn't afforded the opportunity," continued Chief Porter, "because of the size of the department and the keenness of the competition."

When he became Chief January 1, 1971, having beaten out Lt. Richard V. Steiner for the job, Porter joined only five other black Chiefs of Police in the entire state. Did he feel a sense of achievement?

"Of course I did, I still feel that way," replied Porter. "To me, it was a great accomplishment, a goal achieved." Today, Chief Porter remains the only black chief in Mercer County, although he pointed out,

William Sapp, Chief of the Mercer County Park Police, is black.

At the time, James Floyd was also installed as the Township's first black mayor and the twin accomplishment drew considerable notice in the press.

What advice would Chief Porter offer Lt. Pinelli as he assumes command? "I think the Chief has to be a person with an open mind. He has to be sensitive to the community's need, and above all, fair in treatment to all -- including his men." And, he concluded, possess a strong sense of dedication to his job.

"Even though I may not be here, there are things on my desk that require a lot of thought," explained Porter. "You may not hit upon the answer sitting here, but you do have to come up with an answer. Hopefully, when you do, it will be satisfying to all."

By combining common sense with understanding, things usually work out, he said. His toughest decision? "As chief, everything you do, to a degree, is a tough decision," replied Porter.

With that, he fished for a framed letter from a stack of pictures and citations that he had removed from his office walls in preparation for his departure.

It was a letter dated April 14, 1971 from then U.S. senator Harrison Williams. The sentence cited by Chief Porter: "The job of any policeman in today's society is a most difficult one and the chief, as the person with the ultimate authority and responsibility, is certainly the man on 'the hot seat'."

"In other words, the buck stops here. It's good advice for my successor," said Porter.

As for changes during his tenure, Chief Porter listed "administrative headaches" as the biggest. He also mentioned the geographic change in the Township -- from a rural area to one of research-industry; the erection of the Princeton Shopping Center and housing in areas such as Deer Path and Riverside that once were open fields.

He witnessed the department expand from seven officers to 29. When he came on, Chief Porter recalled, there was Chief Gus Eisenmann, Lt. James Campbell -- later his predecessor as Chief -- Lester Anderson, Dick Steiner, Jimmy Rosenberg, Billy Ellis (the only officer ever to lose his life in line of service) and Tony Nini, who also retired last fall after 30 years of service.

"I've seen six of them retire with 25 to 33 years service," commented Porter. "I've gone through eight others who were with the department and

As for crime, it has kept an even keel -- statistically -- throughout his administration, Chief Porter stated. "There hasn't been any great change in any aspect and I can only attribute that to my personnel."

Burglaries? Larcenies? Under control, insisted Chief Porter. "All through that period -- the 70s -- we have stayed within a certain percentage range," he said. "We held our own."

"Of course, any burglary, any larceny that happens is one statistic I don't like to see. But let's be realistic: we're living in a dog-eat-dog world and where you have people you're going to have these things. Overall, I'm very proud of my department."

If he could make any changes, Chief Porter said that he would put more men out on patrol and obtain scientific equipment the department needs. He has the personnel to use such equipment, he said, but not the funds to obtain them. And while the department has always been able to improvise, the acquisition of scientific equipment would free his department from having to rely on assistance from different law enforcement agencies.

Would private citizen Mr. Porter like to see a merger of the Township and Borough police departments that consolidation of the communities would bring?" — no, "Porter retorted.

"A lot of times, those things that are larger are not best. With a larger department you'd lose the rapport, the to-1 basis, in general, with the public. The larger you get, the harder that is to maintain.

Open Door Policy. "Right now, I have an open door policy. You'd lose that. There would be an assistant chief, deputies . . . the Chief would become insulated.

"I can tell you now, I wasn't for consolidation. I was totally against it. Not only from a police standpoint but as a taxpayer — which I have the right to express.

A native of Scranton, Pa., Porter has been a resident of Princeton ever since he left military service in 1946. He settled down, got married, lived in a Birch Avenue Apartment. From 1949 to 1952 he was employed as a warehouseman for the U.S. Signal Corps in Belle Mead — and had no thoughts of ever becoming a policeman. He was a friend of William Gale, founder of Gale Cleaners who was black and politically active.

Mr. Gale and Bert Gulick, also active in town government, Chief Porter recalled, were interested in getting a black man on the police department. As a result of their intercession, and after an interview with then Mayor John Wallace Sr., Porter became a probationary officer for a year.

He took a cut in pay to become an officer. At the time the salary was $2,500 a year, not even $50 a week. "When I sit back and think about that salary, I think, oh, how did I ever do it," smiled Porter.

Photography. To supplement his income, he stocked shelves at the A&P. He became a free-lance photographer, after an editor in town suggested that since he was at accident scenes anyway, why not take a camera along and take pictures.

Porter set up a dark room at home and soon became active as well as in industrial and legal photography. When Castro visited the Ely home on Constitution Hill, Porter was one of three photographers allowed inside. "My prints were sent to Cuba," he said. Many pictures run by Town Topics in the 1960's carried a Fred Porter credit line.

If his police pay was not overly generous, the job was a prestigious one, recalled Porter. As a consequence, he purchased his first home at 202 Birch Avenue — the one he still lives in.

Any regrets 30 years later? "I think it's been a rewarding experience," summed up Chief Porter. "I've met a lot of people, made a lot of friends in the community and in the law enforcement profession. No, no regrets. It's been very fruitful."

And there still may be some aspect of law enforcement in the future for the 55-year old Porter. After some rest and travel in the weeks ahead — "I think I deserve it" — Porter revealed that he intends to look for something in private security or in the private business world. "Corporations and big business realize that they can't get the type of protection they need from the police. They have to formulate their own or go out to private firms," said Porter.

"I don't," declared Porter, "intend on lying idle and stagnant as long as I have my health. I do plan on staying in Princeton."

ARTIn Princeton*FOCUS: CRAFTS

New Series at Museum. A new State Museum series focusing on New Jersey artists and artisans who use glass, clay, fibers and precious metals, has opened with an exhibition of work by Stockton glassblower Don Gonzalez. A parallel series devoted to New Jersey painters, sculptors and photographers has been in existence for several years.

The exhibit of Mr. Gonzalez' works, which will remain through August 22, concentrates on the reflective and translucent qualities of the glass, showing how transmissions and distortions of light and color blend and interact.

The artist began working with glass in 1971 as a student at Carnegie-Mellon in Pittsburgh. In 1977, he was commissioned to execute a set of 12 goblets for the American Crafts at The White House banquet. In 1980, he won an award from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

The State Museum is in the Cultural Center, West State Street, Trenton.

Tickets are available from the PAA at $10, which includes a $7 tax-deductible contribution to the PAA. Proceeds will be used to buy up-to-date mailing equipment. Additional information about tickets is available from the Association at 921-9173.

Princeton High Senior Setting His Sights On '84 Olympics, But Needs Financial Aid

A 17-year old Princeton High School senior, who has a goal of competing in the 1984 Olympic hurdles, is doing his part in training hard for the opportunity, but he also needs some financial help from his fellow Princetonians.

Stephan Fletcher, the current New Jersey state champion in the indoor and outdoor 110 meter high hurdles, and who is ranked second on the East Coast by Eastern Track News in his age division, has qualified to participate in the national Athletic Congress meet to be held in Lincoln, Neb. July 29 - August 2. Fletcher qualified for the young men's division by winning TAC district and regional meets held this summer in Plainfield.

Stephan Fletcher

Fletcher, who is coach of the Princeton High girls track team and who was a standout hurdler at PHS in the early 1950's.

A gifted athlete, Fletcher has given up participating in other sports to concentrate on track. As a result of his success on the track, he has been nominated for an All-American High School Athlete award.

"I know what he can do in meets in this area; what he needs now is national exposure, national competition, the kind of exposure he'll need to train for the 1984 Olympics," said Fletcher Sr.

"If he progresses normally, his times should come down much faster. He'll be stronger and quicker." Fast enough, hopes his father, to get him into some national meets.

In 1984, Fletcher will be a freshman in college. "Hopefully, he can get into a college which has a good hurdles coach," said his father. Stephan is already training on college-height hurdles, which are three inches higher than those used in high school meets.

Meantime, the Fletchers are discovering it costs money to fly to national meets -- an estimate of $500 to Lincoln and $800 to Memphis. Mr. Fletcher revealed Plans for funding have fallen through, he added.

"In fact, what we need is a sponsor or sponsors," said Mr. Fletcher. He is hoping that some town organization or civic club -- or private citizen -- will help them meet the expenses. Anyone wishing to make a donation can do so by sending it to Lamont Fletcher, 21-Red Oak Row, Princeton.

It's been a long time since Princetonian Leslie Bush won an Olympic gold medal in diving; maybe Stephan -- with the town's help -- can make it happen again.

FINAL FOUR GAMES

For Post 76 Team, Princeton Post 76, which proved it can beat the best by knocking Hamilton out of first place

Sunday with a 4-3 victory, will play its final four regular season games this week in the Mercer County American Legion League.

Post 76 is a cinch to wind up in the post-season playoffs. The only question is how high can Pete Millington's squad climb before the last out is recorded.

The league playoffs will feature a double elimination among the second, third, fourth and fifth-place teams with the first-place finisher drawing a bye. The playoffs will start next Thursday, July 29, and continue through the weekend. All games will be played at the Bob DeMeo Field in Veterans Park in Hamilton Township.

Last year, Post 76 finished second to Hamilton in the league standings. It lost its first playoff game, won its second, but was eliminated from the competition early when it lost its third playoff outing. Broad Street Park, which is battling Hamilton for the league lead, won the playoffs last year.

Following its 10-9 extra-inning Donnybrook win over the Browns Sunday, Princeton is in fifth place with a 15-9-1 record and 31 points. It trails Hightstown 16-7-1 (33 points) and Ewing 17-6-1 (35 points). Broad Street Park and Hamilton are tied for the lead with 42 points each.

"We could move up a couple of notches," said Millington. "We're trying to win our last seven. We've won two and the kids feel they can win the last five."

Toughest Game Wednesday. The toughest of the last four will be this Wednesday's meeting with Hightstown at 5:45. "I've told the kids the game's at our field; the pressure is on them," said Millington.

Princeton will wind up its season on the road. It will be at Trenton Post 93 on Friday, at Hopewell Post 339 on Saturday at 1 and at Lawrence Post 414 Sunday at 7:30 p.m. All three teams are out of the running for the playoffs.

Sunday's error-filled game with the Browns was tied at five after three innings. Over the next six innings both teams matched each other run for run, each scoring three in the fifth and one in the sixth. At the end of regulation, it was still tied, 9-9.

In the tenth, Kevin Phox and Keith Ender singled and Dan Arendas drew a walk off reliever Frank Barth to load the bases. Ron Kane then followed with a sacrifice fly to win the game.

Princeton had 13 hits, three by Phox and two each by Ender, Arendas and Chris Hunninghake. Bill Bastedo (3-4) got the win. The last-place Browns (4-21) did not help themselves in the field by committing nine errors. Princeton was guilty of four,

STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD

Here's a story of a baseball batboy who became famous . . . In 1925 the New York Yankees had a batboy named Bill . . . One day Babe Ruth asked Bill to get some hot dogs . . . The kid obeyed . . . Ruth, who had a notorious appetite, ate all the hot dogs and later that day collapsed with severe stomach pains . . .

He was rushed to the hospital . . . When the Yankee from office heard that the batboy had delivered the food to Ruth, they fired the batboy . . . He was downhearted because he loved baseball, but decided to turn to acting instead . . . He eventually wound up in Hollywood and became a movie star . . . and ironically in 1948, he played Babe Ruth in the movie "The Babe Ruth Story" . . . That batboy's name was William Bendix . . .

I bet you didn't know that we're specialists in personal insurance -- homeowners, auto, medical and life.

If you've wondered how the 3 TV networks could afford to give the National Football League a contract worth $2 BILLION, here's the answer . . . Last year a 30-second commercial on an NFL game cost a sponsor an average of $125,000 . . . Multiply that by 48 (the number of commercials during a game) and then multiply that by 233 (the number of games a year) and multiply that by 5 years (the length of the contract) and you'll see that the networks will take in almost $7 billion! . . . Out of that they have to pay the announcers and all production charges, but they still should make money.

three at shortstop where regular starter Scott Porreca was away attending orientation at West Virginia University.

"A Good Win For Us." Sunday's game may have been a letdown, remarked Millington, after Saturday's glittering 4-3 win over Hamilton. "Very satisfying. A good win for us," said Millington. "The kids played well."

Big John Marjarwitz, who scattered nine Hamilton hits but was tough in the clutch got the win, his sixth against one loss. The winning run came in the seventh when Arendas singled, stole second, and coasted home on Judd Petrone's triple.

The 76ers had scored one run in the first when Porreca singled, stole second and scored on the first of three singles by Arendas.

After Hamilton had gone ahead, 2-1, in the third, the Carellas combining a triple and an error for two runs. Princeton tied it in the same inning on a double by Jim Scibetta and Arendas's second hit.

Princeton took a 3-2 lead in the sixth, after losing pitcher Jim Elbertson walked two and then gave up a single to Porreca. Millington also has his team running again. The 76ers kept Hamilton off balance by attempting eight steals and making good on every one.

Earlier in the week, Princeton was less successful. It dropped a 3-1 decision to Ewing's Stan Sanford, who limited Princeton to four hits and struck out 10.

Princeton's lone run came in the sixth when it looked like it would score more. After Porreca had led off with a single, Scibetta's bunt was thrown away by Ewing third baseman Tom Elder. When Ender roped a single to left field, PHIS had tied the score

Princeton began the week with a 11-4 loss to Broad Street Park. BSP's Charlie Lewis had two hits including a triple and three RBI while Mike Zito homered and batted 2-for-4 off losing pitcher Bastedo.

Princeton held to six hits by Ken Tucci, scored three of its four runs in the last inning.

ENGINE NO. 3 HAS LEAD
In Little League. Two lopsided wins by Engine Company No. 3 coupled with two losses by Elks has propelled No. 3 into the lead in the standings in the Princeton Youth Baseball Association Little League.

In games last week, No. 3 walloped Engine No. 1, 30-2, and Eagles, 27-3. At the same time, the Elks were upset by Century 21, 8-2, and by Italian American Sportsmen's Club, 7-5. IASC also routed winless Post 76, 10-1, to move to within a game of Elks.

In other games, the Eagles topped Roma Eterna, 9-1, Engine No. 1 defeated Century

SIX WIN TITLES

In Jr. Tennis Tourney. After four days of heated tennis competition, six juniors emerged as winners in the Friends of Princeton Community Recreation Junior Championships, held this month.

Conducted by the Princeton Recreation Department and the Princeton Community Tennis Program, the tournament has been made possible the past two years through a grant by the Friends of Princeton Community Recreation.

In the girls 12 and under division finals, first-seeded Stephanie Richman defeated Petra Neues, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2, to win the division. Victorious in the girls 14 and under division was Chris Nalbene, who defeated Gail Ellis, 6-0, 6-4, in the finals.

Laura von Seldeneck won the girls 16 and under division by defeating Eleanor Gorman.

In the finals of the boys 12 and under division, first-seeded Jamie McLaughlin defeated Dan Studebaker, 6-0, 6-0, while in the boys 14 and under division Bryan Martin defeated first-seeded, Bruce Ellis, 7-6, 6-4 to claim the title. Warren Buckwald defeated David Schroth, 6-3, 7-5, to win the boys 16 and under division.

NO LEAGUE CHANGES

In Women's Softball. There were no changes in the Princeton Women's Adult Slow Pitch Softball League standings last week and no real excitement either with the 15-run rule being invoked in both contests. Andy's Tavern routed Koffee Kup, 28-1, and Conte's Bar hammered Princeton Indoor Tennis Center, 22-4.

In games this Wednesday at 6:15 at Community Park fields, Andy's opposes Princeton Indoor Tennis Center and Mike's takes on Koffee Kup.

For Andy's, winning pitcher Mary Foxx allowed just five hits, while Donna Woodruff, who also had a great defensive game at first base, led the 26-hit barrage with four hits in five at bats and four RBI's.

Also contributing to Andy's offense were Marie Wszolek (scored four runs), Lisa Schmidt (two-for-four, three RBI's), Kim Bedesen (four-for-six), Karla Pullen (three RBI's), Marty Heard (four-for-five, including a triple, three RBI's), Tina Tuccillo (two RBI's), Marjy Weinkop (three-for-five, including a double), and Skooter Petruska (three-for-five, three RBI's). For the Kup, Penny Rice had two hits.

In its one-sided victory, league-leading Conte's took advantage of P.I.T.C. walks and timely-hitting and had the game out of reach in the top of the second inning, when 15 Conte's batters came to the plate and 13 of them scored.

For the winners, Peggy Wood scored four times and belted a grand slam. Laine Ivan was 3-for-5, Leigh Versfeld and Jill Bonin were both 2-for-2, and Karen Piper and Cynthia Lucullo scored four runs between them. Cathy Burrough was the winning pitcher. Anne Williams and Liz Cramp each were 2-for-3 for the losers.

The standings:

Mike's Tavern	4	2	.667
Andy's Tavern	4	3	.571

MEXICAN VILLAGE II

New Restaurant in Town. Once you've tasted nachos, will you ever be happy with pizza?

Ruth Alegria has nothing against pizza — she just wants you to keep coming back for nachos. Her new restaurant, Mexican Village II, will open this Thursday at 11 a.m. for, needless to say, lunch.

The closing hour will vary, but will probably be 12 hours or more later — around 11:30 p.m. Six days a week, Tuesdays through Sundays. Closed Mondays, because she has to be in New York, buying specialty foods.

Mexican Village II is on the corner of John and Leigh. There are six parking spaces in the rear, and the Community Park lot is only a block away.

Nachos, regular and guacamole (avocado), are served as an appetizer. Dishes of red or green sauce, with the restaurant's compliments, come with complimentary fresh, hot tortilla chips that are made by the restaurant for its own customers. The "Village" also makes its own taco shells, and refried beans from Ms. Alegria's own recipe.

Taste the jalapeno relish, a mixture of the jalapeno pepper, fresh tomatoes, onions and a lot of heat. It's hard to predict how hot 'n' spicy the sauce will be, Ms. Alegria explains, because it depends on the jalapeno pepper, and they vary in character.

One of these hot days, try the cool avocado soup with sour cream, or ceviche — the raw white fish whose pieces are "cooked" by marinating in lime juice. Cactus salad? You'll order it out of curiosity — does it have spines or not?

Ms. Alegria — her name means "happy" — already has Mexican Village I in New York.

"Even in New York," she says, with smiling enthusiasm, "it's an unusual restaurant because it's authentically Mexican. It's just not true that if you've been in one Mexican restaurant, you've been in them all."

Specialties of the house will be chilis rellenos — stuffed peppers — and an arroz con pollo which she describes as "more like the Spanish chicken with rice, with no hot peppers, but flavorful."

Chimichangas, the white flour tortilla filled with shredded beef, and the flaky, flute-shaped flautas will be specialties, too. It's possible that one night a week may be devoted to the food of a particular Latin country.

As a concession to Anglo tastes, there will be four steak dishes, but one of them will be a skirt steak with avocado, and a sauce made of sour cream and jalapeno peppers.

"You'll get the fresh coolness of the cream, then the tingly bite of peppers," Ms. Alegria explains.

... and slices of steak with a spicy sauce ... chalupas — steak on corn tostados ... burritos ... chicken or beef-beans tortillas ... combination platters, allowing you to "make your own" ... six kinds of vegetarian platters.

Unlisted specialties — but we're listing them right here — will be the marisco dish with shrimps and scallops in a vegetable sauce, and enchilada Oaxaca, which is shredded pork with cinnamon, cloves and other excitements.

Desserts ... too many to list. But try the sopapillas topped with ice-cream and honey.

Ms. Alegria plans to have two menus, one for lunch and another for dinner. Lunch prices will be from $5.25; dinner prices from $6 to $7.95. The top price, so far, is the mariscos, at $10.95.

Ms. Alegria, who has lived in Princeton for the past six years, will close the restaurant door on Mondays because she must go to New York to shop for specialty foods — the jalapenos, banana-like plantains, fresh Serrano peppers, cilantro....

Mexican Village II has no liquor license, but you're invited to bring your own. A nice, cold Mexican beer sounds just about right.

NEW TENANTS SIGN ON

At Carnegie Center. Several firms, including two major corporations, have recently leased space at 101 Carnegie Center, the first office building completed at Carnegie Center, the $500-million, 520-acre office complex located on Route One.

E.R. Squibb & Sons and General Mills are among the newest tenants at the 144,000 square foot, wing-shaped building, according to Alan B. Landis, managing general partner for Carnegie Center Associates, developers of the complex. The Wall Street Digest, Norse Energy and the accounting firm of S. Sherman Golomb have also joined the tenant roster.

Scottish & York, the international insurance firm, is the main tenant, having leased 60,000 square feet for its corporate headquarters. Mr. Landis said E.R. Squibb & Sons has leased 14,000 square feet to house its Chemical Research Division.

General Mills took 3,000 feet to relocate its Eastern Regional Sales Office from a Long Island site. The "Wall Street Digest," a financial publication, leased 2,000 square feet for its executive headquarters. The publication, was formerly published in Philadelphia.

GAIN IN EARNINGS

By United Jersey Banks. United Jersey Banks, whose Princeton link is the First National Bank, reported this week a gain in earnings of 17.9 percent for the second quarter. For the first six months of the year, earnings increased 15.4 percent over the corresponding period last year.

Income before securities transactions was $4,578,000, or 80 cents per share, compared with $3,882,000 or 69 cents per share in the second quarter of 1981. Year-to-date income before securities transactions was $9,392,000, or $1.65 per share, compared with $8,137,000, or $1.45 per share last year.

Net income after securities transactions for the first six months of the year was $8,782,000, or $1.54 per share, compared with $8,141,000 or $1.45 per share for the same period in 1981.

"This trend is due to our growth in commercial loans," said T. Joseph Semrod, chairman and president of United Jersey. "We continue to make solid progress on our goal to balance our portfolio by increasing high-yielding, variable-rate commercial loans, while decreasing low-yielding, fixed-rate mortgages."

"CANDYSTORE"

The Electronic Kind. The Electronic Candystore, with goodies for all, has opened in the Princeton Shopping Center across the mall from its parents, The Clancy-Paul computer center.

The new store will concentrate on low-cost home computers, and will be the first Princeton retail outlet for the $100 Timex computer. It will carry a variety of low-cost home computers and a selection of software for Apples, Ataris, Vic-20s and Atari game machines.

It will also allow Clancy-Paul, across the way, to concentrate on its business customers.

Take a look around your property. Have you noticed it's time for another wave of leaf-chewing insects? Those coming to visit right now are the Bagworm and the Japanese Beetle.

The Bagworm builds around itself an elongated sac, 2 or 3 inches in length, out of pieces of its host plant. If the host is a narrow-leaved evergreen, the bag looks as though it were shingled loosely with little sticks. The larva increases in size, enlarging the bag. The adult stage is a moth. This pest overwinters in the egg stage in old female bags. Favorite host plants of the Bagworm are evergreens, Locusts and Sycamores.

The Japanese Beetle can do extensive damage by feeding on foliage. Their larvae are commonly called grubs. Some grubs live in the soil and may do much damage by feeding on the roots of plants. As they mature into beetles, they then attack the foliage and weaken the support system of the host plant. Favorites of the Japanese Beetle are Linden and Roses.

To help control these pests WOODWINDS recommends spraying those trees and shrubs which are susceptible to attack by the Japanese Beetle and Bagworm.

Call WOODWINDS (924-3500) for all your tree care needs.

School Aid

Mrs. McGoldrick said she was reluctant to turn the leadership over to the NJSBA. "We've done better when we are the leaders," she remarked.

"Princeton shouldn't do it alone," advised assistant superintendent Jamie McKenzie. "Other districts and other groups should share leadership."

In the end, the board decided that, when Superintendent Paul Houston returns from vacation next week, he should telephone all other districts, and propose an early autumn conference. Board members agreed it should be an "action conference," designed to pressure Governor Thomas Kean and the legislature. It was also agreed that daily pressure should be applied to the NJSBA.

PROPOSALS SOUGHT

By Black United Fund. Assemblyman John S. Watson has announced that the New Jersey Black United Fund is seeking funding proposals from local organizations providing services to the Black community.

Organizations requesting funding must offer services in the following areas: education, economic development, health and welfare, criminal justice and legal services, arts culture, emergency services and leadership development.

The Black United Fund is an alternative funding and resource clearinghouse for non-profit organizations and projects. BUF funds are generated through memberships, direct contributions and payroll deduction plans.

In response to a communique received from the BUF, Watson commented, "I applaud the efforts of the Black United Fund. It is essential that we as Black people initiate and support self-help programs—particularly in view of the cutbacks resulting from the Kean and Reagan administrations."

Proposals should be submitted to Kirk Davis, Executive Director of the Black United Fund, 24 Commerce Street, Newark, New Jersey, 07102. The deadline for the submission of proposals is August 28.

HOW TO LEARN CHINESE

University Receives Grant. Princeton University's department of East Asian Studies has been given $71,000 by the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation to prepare materials that will improve the teaching of elementary Chinese.

Ta-tuan Ch'en, director of the department's East Asian Linguistics project, will develop a textbook and supplementary audio-visual lessons—based on contemporary Chinese usage. Publication is scheduled for 1982-84.

Materials will be concerned with spoken and written Chinese, designed to help students master the difficult Chinese sound system while teaching basic vocabulary.

Scott McVay, executive director of the Foundation, said that Dr. Ch'en has already "developed a lively way to teach the language," using a text with real dialog and stories. The text will be used at the high school and college level, "perhaps even earlier," Mr. McVay said.

START WALKING

It's Good for You and It's Fun. Redding Circle senior citizen, Lillian Wolf, loves to walk. In fact, she has been the mainstay this summer of the senior citizen walking program sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Department.

The program has been in operation for a month, but unfortunately, the number of participants has not met expectations. However, this has not deterred Lillian.

She, and a few other Redding Circle residents, began walking two weeks prior to the beginning of the program and are still going strong. Presently she walks at least two mornings a week in addition to the Wednesday morning group walk at Redding Circle. The average distance of one of Lillian's walks is about two miles.

Lillian Wolf realizes the benefits which walking yields. Besides being an excellent form of exercise, the program is free, more importantly, walking is fun when done with a group!

The program will continue through August 5. The groups meet at 9:30 a.m. at the following locations: Mondays, Holly House; Tuesdays, Spruce Circle; Wednesdays, Redding Circle; and Thursdays, Community Park.

Those interested should call the Recreation Department at 921-9480.
